McCarthy Tétrault CoLab[™]: Addressing Legal Operations Pain Points

The role of General Counsel is becoming increasingly challenging as budgets tighten and business environments become more complex.

To succeed, you need to identify and address “pain points” – those issues and challenges that keep you up at night. These pain points might include risk management, workload balancing, and adding strategic value to your organization.

McCarthy Tétrault and the Canadian Corporate Counsel Association (CCCA) through chapters in Canada, and the Women General Counsel Canada (WGCC), are pleased to offer you our design thinking lab to help resolve these pain points. Design Thinking is a methodology used to solve complex problems. Design Thinking uses empathy and creativity to explore possibilities and design desired outcomes to benefit the business.

We are pleased to offer this program is to all in-house counsel and legal operations team members.

Please use the forward to your colleague button at the bottom of this invitation to anyone on your team you would like include.

Program includes:

- A survey to identify common pain points that GCs are seeking to manage.
- A half-day CoLab session - a collaborative brainstorming and solutions development session based on design thinking principles.
